

A New State of Mind in Company

I don't care who you are. Or, what you do.
When I walk into your organization
I want to feel your passion. I want to see your courage.
I want to experience your spirit. I want to know that you care about creativity.

I don't care who you are. Or, what you do.
When I walk into your organization.
I want to feel your caring. I want to see your love.
I want to experience your compassion. I want to know that you are working for the common good.

I don't care who you are, Or, what you do.
When I walk into your organization.
I want to feel your openness. I want to see your trust.
I want to experience your honesty. I want to know that you will always speak the truth.

The Leader's longing

By Richard Barrett

I don't care who you are. Or, what you do.
When I walk into your organization.
I want to feel your commitment. I want to see your engagement.
I want to experience your hop. I want to know that you will do what is necessary to get the job done.

I don't care who you are. Or, what you do.
When I walk into your organization.
I want to feel your authenticity. I want to see your tears.
I want to experience your joy. I want to know that you will never hide who you are.

I don't care who you are. Or, what you do.
When I walk into your organization.
I want to feel your yearning. I want to see your searching.
I want to experience your longing. I want to know that you will never stop learning.

I don't care who you are. Or, what you do.
When I walk into your organization. I want to experience you.